Residential Speed Enforcement Campaign begins in Christiansburg

Date: 08/24/2012

(Christiansburg, Virginia) – The Christiansburg Police Department is strengthening its speed enforcement in residential areas.

“One of our largest complaints from citizens is that of speeding in residential areas,” says Major Dalton Reid, “most of the request is for speed enforcement in the morning hours.”

The residential speed enforcement campaign will last through the next several months. Officers will be working overtime to provide the additional support for the campaign and will target areas in which the police department has had multiple complaints.

“If we catch you speeding in the residential areas we will issue you a ticket,” adds Major Reid.

Drivers are always encouraged to drive safely, wear a seatbelt and follow the speed limit. The police department also reminds motorists to be aware of schoolchildren waiting for buses and to also look out for pedestrians.
